

MONDAY EVENING, NOV. 6, 1905.

THE political campaign in Virginia closes tonight, and the last act in the drama will be the casting of ballots tomorrow when the voice of the people will indicate who are to be heads of affairs in the Old Dominion during the next four years. That the democratic ticket, headed by Messrs. Swanson and Ellyson, will have another walk-over is a foregone conclusion. While the campaign has been at times spirited, probably there never was a canvass conducted on more flimsy grounds than that upon which the opponents of the democratic party have been posing. They have taken up the record of the powers that be, have examined it from every standpoint and have virtually found nothing upon which they could base an issue. Some of their champions have attempted to magnify mole hills into mountains, but democratic orators have brushed them away as chaff and held the republican platform up to just ridicule. The advocates of Judge Lewis for Governor have labored under a hallucination that the Old Dominion, from a national standpoint, would shiver forth as the noon day sun were placed in the gubernatorial chair, and have prated much about Virginia taking her place in the march of progress of the twentieth century. The fact should be apparent to all that Virginia since she shook off the political menageries of by-gone years has forged ahead wonderfully, and her record during the past two decades is clean and bright, while prosperity has followed in the wake of honest government and the substantial conditions which have brought confidence in those at the helm of the Old Dominion. It is hoped that every democrat will cast his vote and that present condition be in no wise disturbed.

MR. J. B. HENDERSON, jr., erstwhile of Missouri, is the nominee of the republicans of the city and county of Alexandria, for the House of Delegates. That he was put up for this position at a little meeting held in this city recently by order of the State chairman, Mr. Slemple, who directed that Mr. Henderson should not be opposed. Now it is not believed that Mr. Henderson is known by a dozen people in Alexandria, but because he would pay the price, Mr. Slemple let him have the nomination and orders his followers to vote for him over Mr. Caton, who has made one of the most faithful and efficient representatives Alexandria has had in the House for many years. It is said that Mr. Henderson's candidacy was brought about by "his people," who wished to get him into politics and who selected the Alexandria district because it was "easy." That they properly "sized up" the republicans of this district is apparent by the ease with which the nomination was secured, but "his people" will find out tomorrow that there is a big difference between securing a republican nomination in Alexandria and being elected to office by the people.

CHICAGO ministers and pulpit orators are soon to see themselves as other people see them. Five critics who consider themselves able to appreciate the latter day sermon, are to visit as many churches one Sunday each month, listen, take notes, and eventually report to an audience in the Grand Opera House what they think of the discourses. This is to be called a gospel clearing house and is the scheme of the Spencer Whitman Center, which has engaged a down-town theater for each Sunday morning. The center will start its church next Sunday morning with a lecture by Hugh O. Pentecost, of New York city. Should this movement spread to all cities the clergy will find coils upon their backs when they realize that their discourses are to be subjected to impartial criticism. It will doubtless result in much good, as under present conditions few care to take open issue with gentlemen of the cloth, and the latter will become more studious and endeavor to make their discourses as interesting as possible to their hearers.

SOME of the republican papers are boldly asserting that the young democrats of Virginia, failing to see any future for themselves in the administration of the democracy, are avowing their purpose to link their political fortunes with the republican party. The republicans may hug this fond delusion to their souls, for while many of our young men think it a hard thing for them to be outside the army of those who enjoy the patronage of the government, we can boldly declare that while the south has a large negro contingent with which to deal, there can never be any doubt as to how the southern man votes. The time has not arrived when any Virginian will sell his birthright for a mess of pottage, however highly seasoned, and no hounded words, nor specious arguments to prove "that negro supremacy is practically removed" can affect the honor and integrity of our southern men. The same reason for a "solid south" holds good now as it did forty years ago.

SENATOR MARTIN, who is in Richmond to assist the campaign work of the democratic party, makes this statement:

At the November election, 1904, with a total vote of 128,528, Parker's majority over Roosevelt was 32,768. At the August primary 83,206 democratic votes, in the aggregate, were cast for the candidates for governor. Assuming that Mr. Swanson will receive that vote and conceding to Judge Lewis as large a vote as was cast for Roosevelt last year, 47,880, Mr. Swanson's majority would be 35,326 in a total vote of 131,086.

If all democrats who voted in the primary, and thereby pledged themselves to vote in the regular election for the democratic nominees, will keep that pledge and discharge its obligations, the democratic ticket will be elected by a handsome majority. It is most important that every democrat should vote.

A COLORED Baptist convention held in Richmond recently set about to organize a negro party and to stay away from the polls on election day. The project is supported in all directions, and letters received in Richmond state that the number of colored men to vote tomorrow will be much smaller than usual. Since Judge Lewis and other republican office seekers are proclaiming from the stump that "negro supremacy is practically removed in Virginia," many colored men see no use in longer voting for that party, while others, it is said, are at last beginning to realize that the democrats are their best friends, and will tomorrow vote against Judge Lewis.

SENATOR GORMAN, of Maryland, continues his fight for white supremacy in his State, but he has the united strength of the republican party against him, added to which is the opposition of many men heretofore in his own party who have been elevated to high positions by democratic votes. Such men call themselves "independent democrats," but in truth they are deserters, or republicans at heart, and should never again be trusted or honored by the democratic voters. The Senator has a herculean task before him and is in the right and the hope, of the southern people are for his success.

AN ARGUMENT is being used against Mr. Caton in the county to the effect that should he be re-elected he would have a large part of the county annexed to the city! And there are numbers of people in the county fools enough to be gulled by such statements. Still, such arguments should not injure Mr. Caton in Alexandria city.

LET every nominee on the democratic ticket do his utmost tomorrow to bring out a full vote. This should apply to candidates for both State and city offices.

EVERY democrat should see that his vote and that of his neighbor is cast for the full democratic ticket tomorrow.

ONCE more unto the breach, fellow democrats.

From Washington.

(Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.) Washington, D. C., Nov. 4. Oscar Straus, of New York, called upon the President this morning to consult with him as to whether there was any possibility of action which would result in a mitigation of the horrors connected with the massacre of the Jews in Russia. The President stated that he had been watching with the deepest concern the reports of these massacres and that he had been appealed to within the last few weeks to try to take some action, not only on behalf of the Jews in Russia, but on behalf of the Americans, Poles and Finns. The President does not see that any action can be taken by this government at present that would be of any benefit to the sufferers for whom he feels the keenest sympathy.

Her foot slipping as she stepped into one of the elevators of the State, War and Navy Department building this morning, Miss Margaret McIlvaine, a char woman, was almost instantly killed. Her head was caught between the ascending cab and the top of the door. No blame is attached to the operator. The authorities are making a thorough investigation to ascertain whether the elevator was in proper order.

Senator Cullom of Illinois, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the Senate, called on the President this morning to lodge complaint against the Cuban government for not keeping its promise to maintain the city of Havana in a sanitary condition. He said that he had been informed by a number of business men that the Cubans have built no sewerage system since the American evacuation and the American residents of the city fear that a yellow fever epidemic will be the consequence.

Arguments were delivered today in the U. S. Supreme Court by counsel for Mrs. Mary Mabel Rogers, convicted in Burlington county, Vermont, for the murder of her husband. Mrs. Rogers lawyers urged a reversal of the ruling by the United States district court of Vermont, denying a writ of habeas corpus, on the ground that the woman is subject to solitary confinement and deprived of her liberty in Vermont without statutory authority and without a sentence of the court directing such punishment. It was further argued that the Supreme Court of Vermont, having taken jurisdiction of a trial, had failed to comply with the law in respect to ordering a stay and in fixing a new date for the execution of Mrs. Rogers. The subsequent action of the governor in fixing the execution for December 8, 1905, the lawyers asserted, was not supported by any law and consequently such execution will be without due process of law. It was further alleged that the governor had set the date, while habeas corpus proceedings were pending in federal court and it was argued that the governor's action is consequently null and void. Under the argument against solitary confinement, Mrs. Rogers' counsel showed that the Vermont statute limits the term to three months preceding execution. Mrs. Rogers had been in solitary confinement for six and one-half months when the present appeal was taken.

The appeal of John W. Ballman, the Cincinnati broker, on the writ of error to his original commitment under the contempt proceedings of failure to produce books in the federal grand jury investigation of the Germania National Bank, of that city, was set today for hearing in the Supreme Court of the United States on November 27.

Missouri's eight hour law was held constitutional in the Supreme Court of the United States today, the judgment of the Missouri Supreme Court in the case of Harry J. Cantwell and others against the State of Missouri being affirmed. No opinion was read.

The complete records of the court-martial in the case of the Commander Lucien Young, of the Bennington, growing out of the explosion on board that vessel which resulted in the loss of so many lives, was received this morning at the Navy Department by the Judge Advocate General. It is reported that the findings of the court are that Commander Young did not exercise as careful supervision over the engineering department of his ship as he should have done; that he was therefore guilty of contributory negligence but not in such degree as to warrant his dismissal, and that he should therefore be severely reprimanded.

It is rumored that Congressman Littlefield, of Maine, will soon remove to New York.

Bishop Van de Vyver spent yesterday and last night at St. Mary's parsonage in this city, and preached at both masses yesterday morning. He also confirmed a class numbering over one hundred. The Bishop after the 10:30 o'clock mass pronounced the pontifical blessing. He visited St. Mary's Academy this morning and later left for Richmond.

Messrs. Thomas Smith, B. Wheatley and Samuel Haslett have gone 12 miles below Fredericksburg on a gunning trip. Dr. C. E. Outcall, who has recently been confined to the house by illness, has been directed by his physician to spend about a week out of the city during his convalescence.

A writ of certiorari filed on behalf of the Pressed Steel Car Company by Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, was overruled today by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Pressed Steel Car Company claimed all the patents and inventions evolved by John H. Hanson, one of its $10,000 a year employees. The lower courts decided for Hanson, and the Supreme Court will not review the proceedings.

The United States was refused a writ of certiorari in the Supreme Court of the United States today in the case of the government against William B. Kirk, of Syracuse, N. Y., who was one of Gaynor's sureties in the Gaynor-Greene frauds at Savannah, Ga. The government obtained a judgment of $4,000 against Kirk in Georgia, but Kirk obtained an injunction against the execution of the judgment. The denial of the writ closes one phase of the case in Kirk's favor. A government appeal on a writ of error is still pending.

Sixteen million dollars will be necessary to complete the engineering work of fortifications of the seacoasts of the United States under the plans of the Endicott board, according to the report of Brig.-Gen. Alexander Mackenzie, Chief of Engineers. There has already been appropriated for this purpose $28,693,434.

Three children are dead and thirteen people are injured, one fatally, as the result of an explosion at Islip, Mich., yesterday, which completely destroyed the Miners' National Bank. A gas leakage in the basement of the bank building was primarily responsible for the explosion and loss of life. Two workmen went into the basement about 9 o'clock to make repairs. They struck a match and the flames ignited the gas in the basement, a tremendous explosion following.

The friction caused in the President's Cabinet by the recent order directing Cabinet members to refrain from discussing Cabinet meetings with representatives of the newspapers, has, it is said, been removed by the understanding of the President's position with respect to the matter and the purposes he seeks to accomplish. The restraint placed upon Cabinet members applies only to matters under consideration by the Cabinet, and not in such shape as to admit of an official announcement, and questions of policy, which have not been definitely decided. All the members of the Cabinet acknowledge the propriety of this stand.

In Boston late Saturday afternoon Dr. Percy D. McLeod, held at the Charles street jail on a charge of performing an illegal operation on Susan Geary, was released on $20,000 bail. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Mrs. Dean, who was in charge of the case in which the victim of the "suit-case" tragedy sought shelter. What is confidently believed to be the head of Susan Geary, the dress suit case victim, was recovered in a leather handbag from the bottom of the harbor in Boston yesterday. The head completes the body of the girl. The trunk was found on September 21, and the limbs were picked up October 27.

Both the Middlesex and Grafton hounds yesterday took a holiday in the American-English hound trials after the hard run yesterday, when hounds and horses from the Upperville neighborhood covered fully 50 miles. Today the Middlesex hounds met at Middleburg, and the covers on Duffy's farm were drawn. Mr. Smith, the master of the Grafton hounds, in celebration of his fortieth birthday entertained the visiting sportsmen quartered at Middleburg and Upperville.

R. Monroe Butler was on Saturday afternoon shot and instantly killed by C. C. Brown at Brown's house near Iudika, about ten miles from Suffolk. Both men were drunk, when an argument started and wound up with the above results. Brown is a lumberman of Isle of Wight county, and Butler, whose parents reside in Suffolk, worked for him. Brown was immediately put under arrest, and is now in jail pending a verdict from the coroner's jury. Both parties are white, and the murdered man is single.

The prayer is said to have been one of the most remarkable petitions ever delivered from a house of worship.

LULL IN THE STORM.

There is not the slightest doubt but that the Russian press and people distrust the Emperor's promise of freedom. The revolutionary movement is only halted pending further action by the government. The Emperor and Witte realize the situation.

An official communication points out that the publication of the Emperor's manifesto of October 30 has not yet pacified the country, and declares it indispensable that all classes of the population shall refrain from actions which might render the situation more acute and to exercise the greater circumspection in relations between the different classes of the population in order to avoid conflicts and disorders, which the government must suppress to insure immunity of the person and property of all citizens in Russia of all nationalities and religions.

The manifesto is ordered sent to the heads of all administrations.

The rather faint praise with which the leading newspapers, appearing for the first time in over a week, greet the new constitutional regime, indicates distrust in the government's sincerity, but all assume that this sounds the knell of autocratic power.

By agreement all the newspapers lead their columns with the announcement of the freedom of the press, and they have banded themselves together to hereafter defy all arbitrary attempts at censorship. Their editorials manifest little spirit of gratitude to the Emperor.

A most urgent demand is made for the immediate removal of General Trepoft. Fatal encounters between the soldiers and the populace and anti-Jewish excesses are reported from many places in the provinces. On Saturday and yesterday at Kremenchug 20 persons were killed and 80 injured. At Kutais a military train was wrecked and nine soldiers were killed or injured on both sides.

At Berdicheff several persons were killed or injured, and at Minak serious rioting arose through the troops preventing a meeting of citizens. A hundred were killed and 600 wounded.

The massacre and pillage of the Jews continues at Kishineff.

Yesterday passed in St. Petersburg without disorder or bloodshed. The social democrats and revolutionists had planned a mammoth demonstration in connection with the funerals of those killed in last week's riots. Late Saturday night, however, when it became known that General Trepoft would not permit a big demonstration threatening disorder, and that the mayor had issued a proclamation saying that the streets were no place for the airing of political grievances, the socialist leaders called off their plans. Accordingly the funerals were held in private and workmen attended memorial services in the various mills.

Great patriotic demonstrations were held in the streets of Warsaw yesterday by crowds estimated at 200,000 persons. Processions, headed by clergy and singing "God save Poland," paraded the principal streets.

Today's Telegraphic News

Between 30,000 and 40,000 Jews Massacred.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 6.—The correspondent of the Publishers Press today interviewed a prominent liberal official who said: "The attempts to fasten the blame of the past week's anti-Jews massacres on the bureaucracy and the rough element of the towns where the murders were committed, are unsatisfactory. The whole Russian nation must shoulder the responsibility, because public sentiment favored these massacres or at least regarded them with indifference. Every one in Russia regards the Jews as legitimate prey. When the full reports are available it will be shown that between 30,000 and 40,000 Jews have killed or injured, while there has not been a voice in all Russia raised in protest, and not an authoritative word said in condemnation of these massacres. This is even more horrible than the massacres themselves, for it really presents doubts as to whether the Russian people can successfully run their own government. Certainly the Jews cannot hope to gain freedom under a liberal Russian government unless they fight for it just as the liberals are fighting the autocracy for their own liberty."

France and Venezuela.

Paris, Nov. 6.—The answer given by President Castro of Venezuela in the dispute with the French government, which was delivered in a note to United States Minister Russell, who is in charge of the matter, has not given satisfaction here. Venezuela expressed its willingness to withdraw its note concerning M. Taigny, the French chargé d'affaires at Caracas, if the French government likewise would recall its request that Venezuela withdraw that part of its note which gave notice that Venezuela would not treat further with M. Taigny until he apologized for his statement that the French cable company should be treated unjustly. The government considers that the settlement of the question has not been advanced through this note, but the negotiations will continue as the tone of the message is more courteous than has previously been employed, and France does not wish to resort to coercion while any hope of amicable settlement remains. The withdrawal of President Castro's original note is still deemed necessary as well as that full justice shall be done the French cable company.

King Alfonso in Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—King Alfonso, of Spain, arrived here this afternoon, on a visit to the German emperor. This is his first formal visit since his accession to the Spanish throne, and he was received with great pomp and ceremony. A determined effort will now be made to detach Spain from England and France and to gain Spanish support for Germany. The personal element plays a great part in international European politics, and the striking personality of the Kaiser counts for a great deal. The Kaiser will exert all his personal fascination in order to gain the sympathies of King Alfonso and thereby influence the foreign policy of Spain in a direction favorable to Germany. The development of events will show whether the Kaiser meets with success, or whether King Alfonso will remain proof against the personal allurements of the elder monarch.

Polander Murdered.

New York, Nov. 6.—Because a party of four Poles, living in the tenement at No. 56 Canal street, while playing cards early today put one of their number out of the game for abusiveness, the expelled man shot all the others, killing one of them and probably fatally wounding another. The murderer, who is described to the police as Tony Miro, known in the neighborhood as "Tony the Giant," escaped. The murdered man is Andrew Escapi, who lived on the fourth floor of the house. He was about to be married and had furnished rooms there in anticipation of his bride. Ignace Potrich was shot twice by Miro, one bullet hitting him in the left shoulder, and another in the chest over the heart. Jos. Shipley, who accuses Miro of doing the shooting, was shot in the right shoulder.

Hundreds of Peasants Burned to Death.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—Kleine Journal says that several hundred peasants were burned to death in the Russian village of Jedzovgrad, in the province of the Don, through the firing by Cossacks of a shed in which they were holding a political meeting. Peasants to the number of 1,000 had gathered in the shed to discuss the situation in Russia. The prefect was unable to suppress the meeting and gave his approval to the firing of the building. The whole structure was ablaze in a moment after the torches were applied, and the peasants in a wild panic tried to get out. About 200 of them succeeded in escaping while the rest were burned while trying to fight their way through the single narrow exit.

Steamer Aground.

New York, Nov. 6.—A cablegram received here today from Copenhagen, Denmark, stated that the steamer Hellig Olav, of the Scandinavian-American line, struck bottom on the Middle Ground, in the Kattegat during a storm this morning, and was so badly damaged that she was run ashore to prevent her from sinking. Her passengers were transferred to the steamer Koch, which carried them to port. The Hellig Olav was bound from New York for Copenhagen, and carried 46 cabin and 150 steerage passengers.

Political Conditions in New York.

New York, Nov. 6.—The campaign for the mayoralty closed last night with a democratic meeting in the Hippodrome, and a municipal ownership meeting in Madison Square Garden. Each place was packed with people and thousands were turned away, unable to obtain admission. Comptroller Grout estimates that McEllan would have 20,000 in the city. Mr. Halpin, president of the republican county committee, gives Evans, 227,000; Hearst, 204,000 and McEllan 170,000 votes. The Hearst managers claim that their candidate will receive 300,000 votes.

The engines were both wrecked and all traffic was stopped. Joseph Keating, of Pittsburgh, was killed, Martin O'Donnell and L. Clair May, engineer, and fireman of the other train were badly wounded. The wreck is thought to be due to a mistake of orders. The body of Keating at the last report, had not been removed from the wreckage. It is feared another body may also be in the debris.

The Death of Mrs. Todd.

New York, Nov. 6.—Coroner Dugan, of Philadelphia, made a request of Coroner Scholer, over the telephone today, that the vital organs of the late Mrs. Todd be forwarded to Philadelphia. Coroner Dugan stated that he desired to have the organs for the purpose of determining the exact cause of death, and in his opinion, the plan would eliminate all controversy regarding jurisdiction. Coroner Scholer said after receiving the request that he would not object to such procedure provided there could be no legal objections.

THE ELECTION TOMORROW.

(Special Dispatch to the Alexandria Gazette.) Richmond, Nov. 6.—There has never been a more quiet State election held in Virginia than the one to come off tomorrow, unless all signs fail. The smallest amount of interest prevails here, and it is believed difficulty will be experienced in getting the vote out. The democrats have nothing to fear but apathy anywhere, except in the Ninth district, but they are not sure of a full vote in eastern Virginia. The final claims of party managers place Swanson's majority at 30,000 and give the democrats a safe control of both branches of the legislature.

Female Coxey Army.

London, Nov. 6.—Six thousand women recruited from the slums of London are preparing to march through the city this afternoon to Whitehall, where a deputation of eighteen from their number will be received by Premier Balfour in the local government building,
